4000 Trout Are Stocked In Wissahickon Creek ¹⁹⁴³

20-In. Fish Landed On Wissahickon

By MYRON HUFF

William H. White, 627 W. Ellet st., caught two good-sized trout in the Wissahickon to celebrate the opening of the fishing season this morning without missing a minute from his daily work as superintendent of the Delany Glue Company.

He hooked a 12-inch brown trout at the Valley Green Canoe Club at 5:30 o'clock, a half-hour after legal starting time. He caught another—a 10-inch rainbow—before disjoining his rod and departing for his job at 7 A. M.

White was one of a quarter-million anglers who took to the streams of Pennsylvania and New Jersey on opening day.

Largest early catch reported on the Wissahickon was that of Russell Sherrett, of Montgomeryville, who landed a 20-inch rainbow in the vicinity of Bell's Mill road bridge.

Frankel Gets 18-Inch Fish

Best of the morning catches at the Canoe Club dam was that of Abe Frankel, 805 N. Franklin st., who caught an 18-inch rainbow. A bass fisherman, it was the first large trout Frankel ever has caught. Just after dawn he had landed three brooks ranging between eight and ten inches in size.

Sam Comers, 2440 S. Marshall st., Frankel's companion, stood on the top of the Canoe Club dam and caught three trout in quick succession, the largest measuring ten inches.

George F. Sedberry, 3005 W. Girard av., was another successful fisherman. He got a ten-inch rainbow in the riffles below the Canoe Club dam.

Three women anglers added color to the group fishing at this point. They included Mrs. John G. Smith, 629 E. Sanger st., who accompanied her husband; Mrs. George Austin, Sr., of 809 Carpenter lane, and Mrs. George Austin, Jr., of the Sedgwick Garden Apartments.

Don Yeutter, a 15-year-old boy living at 7014 Greene st., matched Frankel's catch at the Canoe Club, landing an 18-inch rainbow with a dark tiger fly.

Walter Parker, 3d, of 6528 Marsden st., 14, taking part in his first trout-fishing expedition with his father, Walter Parker, Jr., landed a ten-inch brown trout at the Canoe Club dam. His father caught a 14-inch rainbow. Both were taken on tiger flies.

Today's weather was so chill in the first two hours of fishing that many a husky trout was lost because anglers found their lines frozen at the guides when the "strike" came. When some fisherman took time out to kindle a tiny campfire the blaze was quickly surrounded by shivering fellow fishermen.

Sport Enjoyed Despite Cold

Despite cold weather, it was evident anglers were enjoying themselves. Many expressed appreciation that the Fairmount Park Commission waived the Wednesday-Saturday rule on the Wissahickon for the season's opening week.

In Lancaster County, Ira Fickes, a war worker, duplicated the feat of Bill White in this city. Starting at daylight in the Little Conestoga near East Petersburg, he caught ten trout, the daily limit, in two hours, then reported for the 8 A. M. shift. His fish ranged between 8 and 14 inches.

There had been a belief would be fewer anglers on streams here and in New Jersey but it appeared today there as many as usual, despite the wind and occasional snow flurries.

Fishermen had plenty of incentive to cast lines into Pennsylvania and New Jersey streams, state more than 700,000 above the legal minimum. Inches have been liberal spring, and before the close on July 31 this number increased to more than two. In New Jersey similar stockings have been carried on.

CANOE CLUB

TRAILS OF FISHING - 1943

The first fish that I caught in 1943 was a 17" BROWN TROUT, that weighed about $2\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. I caught it above the Valley Green Canoe Club falls (near CRESHEIM CREEK) on a night crawler — Wed. May 5, 1943.

I'll never forget how good he tasted that night. I caught it at 7 o'clock in the morning before going to school.

In the early part of June, I caught a 10" catfish near CRESHEIM CREEK — In a very muddy water.

On June 14, I caught a 15" EEL near the spot where I caught my big trout. It was the second eel I ever caught in my life. The first was caught last year in the same spot; It was also the same size.

4 REST OF JUNE - I caught 2 eels - 15" & 22". Lost a 16" B. Trout.
I caught 14 sunnies, 1 catfish, a 13" sucker (my first) -
I had some experiences with the game warden who caught me two times in one day for not using flies.

July 7, - Fishing with Don Yeutter near the Walnut Lane Bridge, I caught a 19" eel in the rapids of the muddy creek. Don caught a nice sunny.

July 17, - I went to Donald's house at 3.30 A.M., climbed the ladder to his bedroom and got him out of bed. We went fishing at Kitchen's Lane Bridge where the trout were biting good. I missed a good size brownie and Don caught a 9" rainbow. A little later in the day I caught a 13" sucker.

In the afternoon I went fishing at the falls with Don. He caught 4 small sunfish and I caught 7 small sunfish, plus my first bass - a calico 8".

9" Calico Bass

REST OF JULY - I caught some sunfish on helgramites and one on a artificial fly. I also caught a 9" rainbow trout below Canoe Club falls. — A few eels and a couple of nice size catfish.

July 25, I caught my first carp which weighed about 3 pounds. ^(17") I'll never forget the way he wanted that worm, the way he jerked my fly rod, the way he fought, the way he scared me at first, the way he broke water, and so on.

He was caught on a trout hook on the side of his mouth.

My first catch for August is a 37" eel, weighing about 4 Pounds. It was caught on Friday August 7, (2 A.M.) where the Cresheim Creek runs into the Wissahickon. The eel gave a terrific battle which lasted over 4 minutes. This powerful eel beats my 22" eel record, and was hooked on it's bottom lip. I also caught a very nice size catfish. Don Yeutter witnessed my large catch.

Sun. Aug. 9, I caught my second sunfish on a artificial fly, and two others on worms at Wissahickon. (Later in the week, I caught a small catfish; same place.)

Wed. Aug. 18, In the evening (5.30 P.M.) I broke my sunfish record by $\frac{1}{4}$ of an inch ($7\frac{1}{4}$ "). (My former record was 7") I caught it on a water grub, near the place I caught my 17" trout. I played the fish before bringing it in. I also caught three other sunfish on worms.

Aug. 21, At night on the Wissahickon I caught a fat cattish and Don caught a small one.

— Rest of August and September - I caught a whole mess of sunfish, 2 suckers and about three (3) cattish in the Wissahickon.

In the middle of September, Donald Yeutter and I went down to Margate City, (Atlantic City) N.J. We were fishing in the bay and on the rocks in the Atlantic Ocean. We were catching the slippery bass like hotcakes. The fish were biting better in the ocean than in the bay because in the bay the fish fussed around the bait (clams) too much.

I caught a couple dozen bass, 2 spots, and 1 eel. Don caught a little more than me in bass, 3 spots, and 1 winter flounder. I'll never forget the certain (little) spot in the ocean where we caught over 40 bass. As soon as we threw our line in this spot we pulled out a bass.

The bass averaged from 7 to 10 inches, and we caught many of them 12". I brought home 6 of the big bass and had them for supper the next day. My mother said they were very good.

The one that got away —

Nov. 12, After school I went to the Valley Green Canoe Club rapids, where I did a little fishing. I didn't get any bites in the rapids, but at the falls I hooked a bass which was about 17" long — on a trout hook with a lively night crawler on it.

It fought hard and I lost it. I believe that it was a small mouth black bass. (The day was very cold.)

Nov. 20, In the evening from 5 to 6 P.M. I did a little trout fishing at the Valley Green Canoe Club with some nightcrawlers. The water was clear and very cold; Temperature was a little warm. In the second rapids I caught a 14" dark brown trout after missing him on a first try. It gave a fiercest fight. I also missed one big brownie and a $\frac{1}{2}$ dozen undersize brownies in the rapids. At the falls I caught a 13½" brown trout in the quiet part. It also gave a battle. Getting dark, I fished towards the falls (at a big rock) where I landed a 12½" brownie. It fought so (so) hard, like a eel, and thinking that it was one, I played it for a minute. All 3 trout that I caught this day were long and thin, especially the 12½" brown which to my surprise were full of trout eggs.

Sat. Dec. 11, I went fishing at the Valley Green
Canoe Club on the coldest day of the year, so far (20°N.)

Certain parts of the creek were frozen and the brown trout were biting good again. I missed two big brownies and caught one 8" brown trout on a worm, but I threw it back.

TRAILS OF FISHING - 1944

Jan. 1, 1944 I began the new year with a 10" Rainbow caught in the rapids of Valley Green Canoe Club. It was my first trout caught on a streamer and spinner.

adefg PHILADELPHIA. THURSDAY MORNING. MARCH 9, 1944

THEY'LL BE READY FOR CATCHING ON APRIL 15—MAYBE

Thomas (left), president of the Izaak Walton League, and H. Morris Teaf, Fish Commission secretary, are shown dumping trout into the Wissahickon Creek, near Bell's Mill Road bridge yesterday. The trout season opens in Pennsylvania on April 15. Meanwhile the fish will have an opportunity to gain in weight.

The fish were brought here by truck from the Spring Creek Hatchery at Bellefonte. Under the direction of William Burk, special warden of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, members of Philadelphia area fishing associations began the stocking at Bell's Mill Road Bridge. The Izaak Walton League, Pennsylvania Fish and Game, and Holmesburg Fishing Associations all aided in the stocking.

From Bell's Mill Road Bridge, the truck moved along the stream, on a four-mile route, placing trout at seven different sites. This was the seventh consecutive year the historic stream has been stocked with trout. This procedure enables local sportsmen to angle in city-surrounded water. Other officials participating in the stocking were H. Morris Teaf, secretary of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and Paul Ludtkey, Approximately 4000 trout were stocked in the Wissahickon Creek yesterday by State employes and sportsmen in preparation for the opening of the trout season, April 15. The deposit consisted of 2000 rainbow and 1000 apiece of brook and brown trout, all of which were from seven to 22 inches in length. This was the first stocking of the stream since last fall.

April 6, I caught a 9" sucker and a small catfish at Ridge Falls at night.

Rain No Obstacle To Trout Anglers

By JOE O'BYRNE

Despite a steady rain, the anglers swarmed the banks of the Wissahickon and nearby creeks yesterday as the trout season opened in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

All the convenient spots along the Wissahickon were crowded. At Valley Green, The Canoe Camp, Carpenters Lane and right down the creek the anglers were doing their best to snag some of the trout that were stocked about a month ago.

Paul Ludtke, Special Fish Warden in the Philadelphia area, was on the job before five o'clock, and he reported about 60 fishermen below the dam at Valley Green all ready for action at five.

READY FOR ACTION

The anglers who were on the job early seemed to have done all right. John Bechtel, 2843 Amber st., had his limit by nine o'clock and his son only got one rainbow, but he did not feel too badly, for it measured 17 inches.

Hen Collison, of 2246 Walnut lane, and John H. Forker, of 306 Tyson st., Glenside, were together as usual and were doing all right. H. Carney, of 6440 Green st., the Fire Department (Engine Co. No. 3), landed a 16½-inch rainbow and John George, 1129 Nevada st., had a 14-inch brown.

GOOD SIZED CATCH

C. Peterson, of 1926 Buttonwood st., had the largest trout of any of the anglers interviewed—an 18-inch brown. S. A. Dudley, of 4915 Oxford st., had a 14-inch brown and Joseph Berp, 1321 S. Leighton st., had 3 12-inch browns.

Not many representatives of the fair sex were out, no doubt because of the threatening skies early in the morning. Marie Saalfrank, of 204

E. Roosevelt blvd., and Jody Williams, 1993 N. 6th, continued fishing right through the rain, proving they were real anglerettes.

YOUTH GETS WHOPPER

Fourteen-year-old Richard Dober took one of the day's prize fish—an 18½-inch rainbow—from Wissahickon creek. Still others who whipped the Wissahickon with success included John Burns, who landed a 15-inch rainbow, and William H. White, who took a 14-inch-er. The stream is restricted to fly fishing and has a bag limit of five, compared with 10 for the rest of the State.

Bill Cunningham, of this city, reporting from Split Rock Lodge in the Poconos, said few fish were taken before it began to rain shortly after noon. After rain started, action came fast for Dr. A. Edgar Park, of Rosemont, who landed the limit of ten brownies. Quill streamers became the almost universal lure in the area after Dr. Park checked in with his catch and reported he had taken them in that kind of fly. Mrs. J. B. Warriner, this city and Lansford, also fishing Tunkhannock and Tobyhanna creeks at Split Rock, brought in a fine catch, including two 12-inch browns.

From the Williamsport area, in North-Central Pennsylvania, came reports of high streams, few limit catches and only an occasional large fish.

In New Jersey conditions were much the same. Matt Van Istendal and Fred Loud, Collingswood, were in the Sylvan Lake Region, trying their luck. H. T. (Piney) Parker and Ed Warrick were in the northern part of Jersey. Brinkley Price, well-known tackle man of Moorestown, was on the job demonstrating his wares and Budd and Martha Marter, of Beverly, were trying out the streams in Burlington county. Theodore Rose does his trout fishing the hard way—he tries South Jersey in the bass section of the State.

WELL STOCKED STREAMS

Despite the inclement weather the fish crossed the dope and obliged the anglers by rising to almost everything they offered. Caddis flies and Tigers; in fact, almost any fly as long as it was brown and gray, seemed to do the trick.

Reports from the counties surrounding Philadelphia reveal the fact that the anglers who found time to get along the various streams fared just as well.

If the fishermen who criticized the Fish Commission for stocking the Wissahickon would take the time to stroll along its banks on Wednesday or Saturday during the open trout season they would change their attitude. The anglers know the fish are there and it furnishes wonderful recreation for the hundreds of fishermen who cannot take the time to visit more distant places.

YOUNGSTER GETS FOUR

John F. Stadel, 13, smiling freckle-faced son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Stadel, proudly caught four large trout in the Little Conestoga Creek at Lititz in his first hour of the season's opener. The fish measured 15, 16, 17, 19½ inches and together weighed nearly eight pounds.

John said that when other fishermen saw his haul, they came over to his spot and told him, "you have enough now, you can go home." And he replied, "I am home." The stream runs through a meadow on his father's farm.

April 15, I begin the trout season with a Rainbow trout - 8½", at Allen's Lane Bridge. I went out with Don Yeutter⁽³⁾ Paul⁽⁵⁾ and Bob Benson⁽¹⁾ and John George⁽²⁾. The biggest was caught by John George. It was a damp and rainy day.

April 29, I caught 3 trout at the mouth of Cresheim Creek - 8" Brownie, 8" Rainbow, and my first Brook Trout - 7½".

May 6, Near Pence Rock, I caught 2 suckers, $11\frac{1}{2}$ " and $13\frac{1}{2}$ ", a catfish, and a sunfish. I also landed a 4 Pound carp, but he fought his way back into the creek.

(The fish were biting good in the still water because of the warm weather and lack of rain.

— May 10, caught 2 sunfish on Wissahickon.

Sat. May 13, Very early in the morning from 11 P.M. (Fri.) to 4 A.M. (Sat.) Don and I fished at the sandbar near Cresheim Creek. Don caught 3 eels, 1 catfish and I caught 1 eel (18"), 2 catfish (10" each) and 1 sucker (11")

~~~~~ That evening as it began to turn dark, I caught 1 sunfish on fly, 1 sucker (10") and 3 trout—

Trout Stocked In Wissahickon

1945

By JOE O'BYRNE

The first consignment of trout for the Wissahickon arrived yesterday afternoon and thousands of brownies, brookies and rainbows were released from Bell's Mills Road and at other good spots downstream.

A large crowd was on hand to help the fish wardens distribute the legal size and larger trout, which should be acclimated by the time the opening fishing date rolls around.

NO FISH LOST

Paul Ludtke and Walt McWilliams, special fish wardens, and William Hope, Fairmount Park guard who supervises the distribution of the fish, took the trout out of the special tank car and into the water. Not one fish was lost.

Bill Burk, president of the Pennsylvania State Fish and Game Protective Association, was in charge of the annual event and many other clubs also had representatives there to help.

TASK MADE EASY

George and Charley Quillan and others were working for the Holmesburg Fish & Game Protective Association. Charley Berkey, president of the Split Rock Club; Warren Netter, Walter Hatley and Frank Thomas, of the Philadelphia Chapter of the Izaak Walton League, and dozens of other sportsmen made the task easy.

This year there were many ladies present to help release the trout. Two soldiers just returned from overseas helped.

When the season opens April 15th, the Wissahickon will be open from 5 A. M., the same as other streams, so the anglers can take advantage. After that the regular schedule of Wednesdays and Saturdays will be in effect.

I then went to Pee Wee Rock with Don & Fuzzy where I caught, after a furious battle, a 9½ Pound Carp. Don helped net my Record Carp after my right arm was all tired out. He was <sup>caught</sup> on my Fly Rod on a trout hook which got him on the side of the mouth. (The fish was full of eggs.)

May 12, Fishing the muddy Wissahickon for less than an hour, I only caught 1 shinner. (That's all that were biting. Had an interesting conversation with a fisherman who later rode me up Livezy Lane with me dragging my bike on the side of the car.

Wed. May 30, I caught a  $9\frac{1}{2}$ " Brown trout across from Cresheim creek and a  $6\frac{1}{2}$ " sunfish <sup>(RED BELLY)</sup> on worm & spinner. I lost a couple nice size whoppers because of my small hook.

Wed. July 4, Fishing at the Springfield Ave. Bridge on the Wissahickon which was at its muddiest - I caught an 18" eel and a 8" catfish. Later at Cresheim Creek I caught an 8" Rainbow & a small sunny.

Sat. July 21, At Cresheim Creek opening I caught two small sunfish and a  $9\frac{1}{2}$ " Brownie. I only spent a couple of hours there, and I met Paul Benson, his father & Fuzzy.

Sat. AUG. 11, The big rains we had during the past month changed the appearance of both Cresheim and Wissahickon Creek. In some places the <sup>CREEK</sup> widens out and in other places it became narrow and low. Fishing near Cresheim Creek, I caught 4 sunfish.

Sun. Sept. 9, - - I went to Springfield myself by way of Red Arrow Lines. It was a beautiful day but the bass weren't biting so good. All I caught was one small sunnie.

FRIDAY APRIL 4 - WISSAHICKON STOCKED

Trout Stocked In Wissahickon

Approximately 1200 hatchery-reared trout (brown, brook and rainbow) were stocked yesterday in Wissahickon Creek by members of various local sportsmen's organizations.

Distribution of the trout, transported by tank truck from the State-operated hatcheries at Huntsdale, near Carlisle, was under the supervision of Special Fish Warden William Burk, of the Pennsylvania State Fish and Game Protective Association, and H. Morris Teaf, of the Philadelphia Chapter, Izaak Walton League.

A second consignment of trout, provided by the State Fish Commission, is due to be stocked in the creek prior to the opening of the season, April 15. The fish were released at various points in the creek starting above Bells Mill rd.

Sportsmen here have annually stocked trout in the Wissahickon during the past 15 years.

I. Use of ie and ei.

Write i before e except after c - Or when preceded like a ss in "neighbor" and "weigh".
 Examples - believe, chief, field; ceiling, receive, direct.
 Exceptions - either, neither, leisure, seize.

II Words of one syllable and words accented on the last syllable adding in a single consonant preceded by a single vowel, double the final consonant before adding a suffix beginning with a vowel;
 as blot, blotted; begin, beginning, forgot,
 forgotten; plan, planned; refer, referred; (reference)

III c + g are usually soft (have the sound of ch + j) respectively, when followed by e, i or y; as, cent, city, cylinder; ginger, gymnastics.
c + g are usually hard when followed by other letters; as, decant, clean, guitar.

IV Final silent e is dropped before adding a suffix beginning with a vowel; as, write, writing, type, typist; value, valuable; Exceptions occur when dropping the e would alter the sound of c or g in accordance with rule three; as, advantageous, noticeable, & in such words as dyeing, hoeing.

V Words ending in y preceded by a consonant usually change the y to i before adding a suffix that does not begin with it, as, pity, pitiful;
 sleepy, sleepiness, sleepily.

Problems of City Government
Careful planning by city. (Health & decency)

1. Street paving
2. utility services
3. orderly growth
4. police & court organization
5. fire protection
6. school development etc. (not delayed)

gravest social consequences —

1. dishonesty
2. inefficiency
3. incompetency

PROBLEMS:

Development of City Government

1. reforms intended to curb the irresponsible control of venal partisan forces.
2. Larger powers of home rule were wrested from legislatures.
3. Authority was centralized in the mayor; terms of office were lengthened; councils were altered from double- to single-chambered bodies; civil service principles and practices were put into effect in cities.

Abuses in City Government

(Most abuses in government & politics have taken place in the city.)

- anonymity, the impersonality, & the haste of city life.

In cities there are the great organized hordes of vice, gangsterism, & racketeering that require "protection" & are willing to pay for it.

Party politics: Voting wrong -

the result is often poor leadership, administrative inefficiency, uneconomical government, & even open bribery & corruption.

- partisan system - responsible for the rise of such abuses and the forces of municipal reform.

Forms of City Government: The Mayor-Council type, American city - a subordinate form of government, subject to the state.

serving both as an agent of the state government & as a means of local self-government.

Cities are incorporated under charters, which constitute their fundamental law.

These charters are passed as state law and are subject to modification by the state.

1. form of municipal government
2. choosing most important officers
3. choosing certain regulations governing the conduct of city affairs.

3 Types of city government

1. oldest & most common type of city government is the mayor-council form of organization.

- under this plan, the mayor

It may be said that the longing to go out in the open fields and fish comes naturally to some people.

I guess it's that way with me, although born and raised in the city, I had taken an early liking to the outdoor sport.

A great deal of my leisure hours have been spent with my companions, either casting flies for "rainbows" or casting plugs for "smallmouth".

What a thrill it is to land a sixteen or seventeen inch trout on a five and a half ounce rod, or a three pound bass on a 'jitterbug' plug.

I have already fished in different parts of the country for other species of fish, but this summer I had the time of my life at Princeton, Maine. Coming back from a partly-disappointed fishing trip in Nova Scotia this September, where all the creeks were dried, due to the long summer drought which resulted in poor inland fishing conditions, I stopped at Princeton, Maine on my way home. I always heard how good it was at this particular section, so I decided to find out for myself. I picked a fair sized lake, hired a boat along with an Indian guide, and set out to fish.

We came to a certain spot and dropped anchor. The first lure I used, was a pearl spoon, and within a minute of hitting the water, a beautiful two and a half pound bass was fighting for his life.

From then on, it seemed that every spoon or plug I cast out would always result in a nice size bass <sup>weighing</sup> no less than a pound and a half.

By the end of my stay at Punneton, I had about twenty-four fine looking bass to my credit, which although I did not keep but anyway will always stand out among my many fishing experiences.

A-1 Fish Cleaned with Car Valve — To quickly remove the entrails from a fish after cutting it open, an old valve from a car motor is just the thing. When used as indicated, it does the work efficiently without cutting or tearing the flesh. Of course, the valve should be cleaned & polished carefully before using.

EVAPORATION OF WATER FROM SACKS
KEEPS MINNOW CANS COOL

The difficulty of transporting a number of live minnows from one stream to another in extremely hot weather led one fisherman to use burlap sacks to keep the water cool. The sacks were merely inverted over the cans & pushed down into the water as indicated. Pieces of twine held the sacks in place & small rocks dropped into the ~~bottom~~ pockets thus formed kept the burlap immersed so that it

Leg Slip-Overs on Rubber Boots Keep Out Weed Seeds

Campers and fishermen who wear rubber boots through brush and tall weeds are often annoyed by having bits of broken twigs and weed seeds drop into the open boot tops. To avoid this, cut two sections from the legs of a pair of discarded duck trousers or overalls, hem the top and bottom and thread a stout elastic through them. Then slip these over the boots. They will repay you many times for the little time and trouble necessary for their construction.

would provide wicks for carrying water to the exposed portions. In this way, evaporation served to keep the cans cool & the splashing water helped maintain the necessary oxygen supply for the minnows.

SIMPLE HOLDER FOR LASHING THREAD WHILE TYING FLIES

DRIVEN INTO WALL AND BENT

ROLLING THUMBER FOR CASTING REEL SAVES WEAR ON THUMB

Novice casters are offered a reel thumbing attachment to aid them in handling the rod and reel. The attachment is said to prevent back lashes and "birds' nests." Spinning of the reel is controlled by pressing a rubber roller against it, thus avoiding direct contact with the line which might result in a raw thumb. Made in two sizes, the "thumb reel" works equally well on reels with or without level winders, and is attached easily by snapping its metal plate over one of the reel pillars and a wire spring under the next pillar so the roller may ride between them. Tension may be adjusted to suit the fisherman.
